

David Buscher

David Buscher began his career at a Chicago publishing company called Nightingale-Conant and went on to start Insignia Public Relations + Strategic Media, an agency in Baltimore, MD. After working for a time as the Art Director of eLink, a "smart building" Internet provider in Bethesda, MD, he moved to New York City and started Saint Goblin Communications Design.

In 2005, he founded bluehouse (www.bluehouselife.com), an environmentally friendly home store and cafe located in Baltimore's Inner Harbor East neighborhood, as well as the associated web store.

David has a BA in the Writing Seminars from Johns Hopkins University and an MA in Publications Design from the University of Baltimore. David is a board member of the Chesapeake Sustainable Business Alliance.
