

Jack Arnold

Jack Arnold – owner of Bird River Design, brings with him years of successful community based business experience, primarily in the construction industry. Jack has a lifelong interest in and has accumulated a wealth of knowledge in green building design and construction. Throughout his nearly 30 years in Baltimore, he has been involved at all levels with a number of small community based businesses. Jack also developed and produced conferences in low cost, energy efficient shelter, taught classes in passive solar design and, as an extension agent for the University of the District of Columbia, helped local communities organize programs to aid residents in implementing low cost energy saving ideas and techniques.

Jack graduated from Oglethorpe University in 1960 with a Bachelor of Arts degree and has pursued graduate studies in education through the University of Maryland. He received the LEED™ Accredited Professional designation in 2004 and Green Advantage Certification in 2006.
