

Susan E. Smith

Susan E. Smith is a senior litigation associate with Crosswhite, Limbrick & Sinclair. After law school, Ms. Smith worked for several major national law firms in Washington, D.C., where she gained exposure to large, complex litigation involving banking regulation, patent and trademark law, toxic torts, and securities fraud. Her current practice areas include insurance defense and coverage litigation, and general civil litigation, including personal injury, premises liability, and the defense of municipalities and other governmental entities in all variety of tort claims. She also represents clients in cases involving claims of environmental contamination and toxic exposures.

Ms. Smith studied environmental law and have worked for environmental non-profit organizations and environmental consultants in the past.

Ms. Smith is a graduate of the University of California (B.A. 1993, with College Honors) and the Northwestern School of Law of Lewis and Clark College (J.D. 1997), where she was an Associate Editor of International Legal Perspectives.